FALL/WINTER 2020 CATALOGUE

The Black Ship

David Clink

The Black Ship only knows one destination: the unknown.

The Black Ship is the latest poetry collection from award-winning poet David Clink, a follow-up to his The Role of Lightning in Evolution. The Black Ship continues Clink's mastery of genre poetry, the speculative writing of spaceships and monsters, domed cities and dinosaurs, ghosts and dragons, that he is known for. These poems invite you to visit a reality that is as much a part of our own reality, yet set apart, something else, something different, something living within us, something hopeful and terrifying at the same time.

David Clink is the poetry editor (along with his sister, Carolyn) of Amazing Stories Magazine. His poem, "A sea monster tells his story" won the 2013 Aurora Award for Best Poem/Song. His poetry has appeared in over 50 journals, including Analog five times and Asimov's three times. He has two speculative poetry collections, Monster, (published by Tightrope Books, 2010) and, The Role of Lightning in Evolution (ChiZine Publications, 2016). He is the author of six poetry chapbooks. His poetry has appeared in four Tesseract anthologies, and in genre journals *Star*Line*, On Spec, Silver Blade, Strange Horizons, and Pulp Literature.

Discovering Japan

Nancy Baker

Dark Fantasy Stories

The punk clubs of an imaginary Toronto. A haunted airport waiting for blood and vengeance. A witch-obsessed village on a grey sea. These are a few of the way-stations on a journey through horrors within and without and fantasies both grim and lyrical. Containing two never-before-published stories and exclusive excerpts from a work in progress, this collection of short fiction by Nancy Baker traces the evolution of an imagination.

A Halo of Flies

Halli Villegas

Exploring the boundaries that exist between what is in the mind and what is real . . .

Is it imagination, or is it reality? There are no easy answers. For hundreds of years women have used the fantastic in their work as a way of being able to explore and describe conditions in their lives that were suppressed by polite society. These stories became political and psychological subversions of the existing status quo. The stories and poems in this collection carry on that tradition using the juxtaposition of the fantastic and the real to create a sense of entering a place where things happen on many levels at once, in both the conscious and the subconscious mind.

Halli Villegas is the author of three collections of poetry, Red Promises, In the Silence Absence Makes, and The Human Cannonball, and several anthology pieces. Her poetry and prose have appeared in places such as the LRC, Exile, Kiss Machine, Pagitica, Variety Crossings, and The Windsor Review, and her book, The Hair Wreath and Other Stories, was published by ChiZine in 2010. Halli has received funding for her writing from the OAC Works in Progress in 2006, the TAC mid-level writers in 2007 and 2009, and the OAC Works in Progress in 2009. Her next collection, A Halo of Flies, will be out from CZP in late 2020.

Red Rover

Troy Harkin

It's Pontypool meets The War of the Roses.

Love will tear us apart. Or perhaps it's the global pandemic. Or both. When the Overton Virus (AKA Red Rover) rages across the face of the earth, it gives no quarter to the tiny Canadian town of Valentine, Ontario. Soon the inhabitants of Valentine are pitted in a life or death battle of the sexes that may end in Armageddon.

Seven Devils

Kenneth Mark Hoover

A dark western horror like Bone Tomahawk crossed with Jonah Hex, and corroborated by the uncompromising brutality of No Country for Old Men.

Haxan is a place of ferocity and death. U.S. Marshal John Marwood must rescue the daughter of a woman tied darkly to his past. Zamora is just like Marwood: violent, uncompromising, and eternal. She is hidden deep within the Indian Nations in a place of dark magic and timeless eternity called Seven Devils. There, Marwood will face his past and present, and find at last the only woman he has ever loved throughout time.

His fiction has appeared in Beneath Ceaseless Skies, Ellery Queen's Mystery Magazine, Strange Horizons, and many others. He has two previous Haxan novels out: Haxan and Quaternity. Seven Devils is the third in the Haxan universe, and will be released in December 2020.

shape shifter

Yaqoob Ghaznavi

Shapeshifters need love, too.

Yaqoob Ghaznavi's second poetry collection, shape shifter, presents glorious poems full of heart, gentleness, and vigor, explorations of the world, and the self. Ghaznavi is a master of voice, rhythm, line, image, and idea. His extraordinary poems are ones you will want to return to again and again, like moments shared with a dear friend. This collection is a letter sent on a remarkable journey, through towns of rain, passing gardeners keeping secrets, and always, the finely drawn moments of connection: the things that poets capture so well.
